

10 Hottest New Bars in Atlanta

If you want a drink, you're in the right city. We've got everything: quiet places where you can confer with knowledgeable mixologists about a still-under-the-radar Italian liqueur; rowdy joints that beg ya to throw back some cold ones with friends; casual neighborhood bars where the cocktails are great. So, where are Atlantans drinking right now? What's hot and newly opened? Read on to find out.

Biltong Bar

NEW Old Fourth Ward

Must-order: You could (and should) sample some of the stellar cocktails, concocted to pair well with the South African cured meat biltong, but stick to the region and select from one of the tough-to-find South African wines on the menu.

Insider Tip: You can take your drinks to go and wander through Ponce City Market, as long as you don't enter any of the retail stores with your booze.
